WARRING CHINESE GENERALS TO FIGHT

MIGHTY RULER OF MANCHURIA RECEIVES FENG'S ULTIMATUM

Either You Quit Politics Or Fight It Out Is the Challenge Sent By the Christian General To the Manchurian Warlord—Threatens to Order Attack Immediately—Troops Tighten Grip On Peking—U. S. Sends Warships From Manila.

The U. S. destroyer McCormick left Manila for Shanghai on account of threatening conditions in China. Three other destroyers are held in readiness to proceed to China.

The "Christian General" Feng Yuxiang Friday served public notice on Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, one all powerful ruler of Manchuria, to quit politics or fight. Feng sent the Mukden leader a message urging him to retire. Otherwise, he declared, he would attack immediately.

Peking remained outwardly calm in spite of this culmination of the spectacular march of events, which has made the anti-foreign Feng virtually master of Peking and threatens to eliminate Chang from the political arena.

Altho dispatches from Mukden said Chang Tso-Lin was determined to fight to the last, other defections among his followers were reported, making his stand seem like a forlorn hope. Meanwhile an additional division and other troops of the "Christian general's" forces were taking their places in the garrison of Peking, tightening the grip of Feng on the capital. His early arrival in Peking from headquarters in Kalgan is considered probable.

The chief executive, Marshal Tusan Chi-Jui, still remain in Peking, in spite of his desire, expressed to the cabinet to resign and free himself of the imbroglio into which northern China has been thrown. He is understood to have received assurances from Yu-Hsiang and Li Ching-Ling, civil governor of Chihli, in which Peking is located, that the peace will not be disturbed. Li, formerly a henchman of Chang Tso-Lin, has declared himself free of that connection.

Chang Tso-Lin is pictured in Mukden dispatches as determined to reject the demands for his retirement, some of which come from his former followers, and to defend his position in Manchuria.

A sudden whiff of unexpected developments in China has left officials at Washington and apparently in Peking completely mystified as to what new turn to expect in the political-military struggle of the three great provincial war lords.

The fall of Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian dictator for many years and heretofore regarded as the most strongly placed of the trio, was indicated in meager advices Friday from Minister McMurray at Peking. The revolt at Mukden, followed by the breaking away of provincial chiefs previously allied with Chang in Tientsin and elsewhere, came out of a clear sky.

The most probable explanation of the revolt in Chang's ranks, as seen by informed officials, is that he is regarded as an outlander by the Chinese whenever he passes to the south of the great Chinese wall, which was built long ago to prevent Manchurian incursions. The conquest of Manchuria by a leader from China would be a much easier thing to visualize in the Chinese popular view, than that a Manchurian should exercise power south of the wall.

"Black Glass" Enables Photograph in Darkness

Tokyo.—After several years' investigation, Jusei Sugiyie, a scientist of the industrial experimental station of Osaka, is reported to have invented a black glass of a special kind which is expected to prove of great military value. It is said the glass is opaque to all but ultraviolet rays, and, by its use, battle formations or the movements of an enemy can be easily photographed in darkness without detection. Moving pictures, it is claimed, can also be taken in the dark by its use.

Experiments with the new glass made recently in the presence of Rear Admiral Muto are said to have proved a complete success.

The inventor declares the glass will be found valuable in medical treatment.

Louisiana Plans Huge Memorial to Longfellow

New Orleans.—The Longfellow-Evangeline memorial when erected will be made up of three figures cut into a monument that will stand on the banks of the Bayou Teche, near St. Martinville.

The monument will arise in a fifty-acre park, almost on the spot where the forlorn Arcadian girl kept her unfulfilled tryst with the banished Gabriel.

For years, tourists have visited the beautiful Evangeline country of Louisiana and have marveled at the beauty of the moss-hung oaks beneath which Evangeline awaited her lover. In the center of the park will be a wading pool surrounded by figures symbolic of the poem, Youth, Gladness, Love and Despair, over which will stand the monument consisting of a figure of Longfellow and his two characters, Evangeline and Gabriel.

Funds for the project are being furnished by subscriptions from school children of the South and Longfellow-Evangeline associations everywhere.

Columbus—Distribution of the residuary estate of the late Gordon Battelle, assigning $1,527,736.25 to the Battelle Memorial institute and the same amount to the estate of the late Anna Battelle, was made in probate court here Friday.

The institute will soon be organized here for the study of metallurgy in compliance with Battelle's request.

Mrs. Battelle was a former Republican committee woman from Ohio.

Springfield—Mrs. Martha Wiley, 63, died here Friday from a fractured skull received last July from her son-in-law, Floyd Strawther, during a family quarrel. Strawther is in jail and in addition to a murder charge, is accused of beating his wife with an iron bar.

Marion—More than 100 delegates registered here Friday for the annual convention of the Ohio Baptist Young People which opened at the Trinity Baptist church here. Prominent Ohio churchmen were among the speakers.

Cincinnati—William Morris, Cincinnati, fell into a ladle of molten slag at the Andrews Steel company foundry here Friday and was burned to a crisp.

Police began an investigation on the theory that Morris was hurled into the ladle by a man with whom he had quarreled. Foundry officials said, however, that Morris fell and was seen by eyewitnesses.

Doufance—Little hope is held out for the recovery of Pearl Redkiewicz, 13, a domestic who was severely burned when her clothing caught fire from an open grate.

Cleveland—Harry Bennis, 58, was crushed to death Friday when he was caught beneath the wheels of a trolley car. His body was mangled.

Cleveland—Silks valued at $15,000 were stolen from the Campen Brothers company, manufacturers of women's garments, some time during the night.

The robbers forced the front door of the factory, opened the rear door from the inside and loaded the loot into a truck.

More than 140 bolts of silk were taken.

Gob Loses 173 Pounds; "Diet Did It," He Says

Philadelphia.—After a year and a half passed in watching himself disappear in large chunks, Chief Yeoman Clarence H. Hemery, U. S. N., at the League island navy yard, has at last found something authentic in effective dieting to give a waiting world.

"It was not a miracle," began Clarence. "It was merely application. I determined to become thin and I did it."

It was just 18 months ago—and Clarence has photographs which prove it—that the chief yeoman battled the scales at 375 pounds, dinner table side. Today he weighs just 202 pounds, a decrease of exactly 173 pounds.

"I dieted," said Clarence, running his finger around the inside of his now roomy collar.

"I made up this list and day after day despite the temptations of cream-embellished coffee and juicy steaks I stuck to it. For one year and a half I have eaten nothing else. This is my regular daily allowance: Thirty ounces of vegetables, six ounces of lean meat, six ounces of lean fish, one whole egg, the whites of four eggs, four apples, two oranges, wheat bread and skimmed milk."

Policeman as "Outrider" to Protect the President

Policeman Bingham has been appointed as "outrider" to protect President Coolidge when he takes his walks about the capital streets. Bingham rides in advance of the President and makes sure that the President's life will not again be endangered by such an incident as occurred recently when a motorist, cutting a corner sharply, near ran him down.

A New York politician says he wants to sell Tammany to the South. But the South doesn't seem to be in the market.

POPULATION OF PRISONS INCREASING

Employment is One of The Outstanding Problems of The System.

An interesting contribution to the argument as to whether prohibition has decreased or increased crime in the United States was furnished by the department of justice, when it was announced that the federal prison population in the country had increased 15 percent in the past year.

A woman's penal farm will be established at Alderson, West Virginia, while a first offenders' prison for men is planned at Camp Sherman, Ross county.

It cost $1,748,000 to operate the Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeil Island institutions in the 1925 fiscal year, an increase of $200,000 over the previous period. This does not include the amount expended by the government to "farm out" prisoners to county and municipal jails and the state penitentiaries.

"One of the outstanding problems in the administration of the prison system is that relating to the proper employment of prisoners," Luther C. White, federal superintendent of prisoners, said in a report to Attorney General Sargent.

"There are now many able-bodied inmates of the federal prisons in enforced idleness.

"Plans are being made by the department that this particular situation may be presented to congress with a view to obtaining authority for the inauguration of new enterprises which will enable the manufacture within the institutions of needed supplies for the different branches of the government.

"The operation of the cotton duck mill at Atlanta penitentiary is emphasized as an illustration of what can be accomplished thru the proper employment of federal prisoners."

NONAGENARIAN

Mrs. Jacob Haynes Passed Away at Chillicothe Hospital Thursday.

Mary Martha Haynes, aged 89, passed peacefully away on Thursday afternoon at the City hospital in Chillicothe of infirmities of old age. She was the daughter of Henry and Drusilla Strawser, one of the pioneer families of Colerain township, Ross county, being the last of a family of thirteen children. Mary Martha Strawser was born in Colerain township, Ross county, on May 31, 1836. On April 4, 1863, she united in marriage with Jacob Haynes, who recently preceded her to the life beyond. Those left to mourn their loss are: Mrs. H. A. Barnhart, of Chillicothe; William F., of Toledo; Motes, Coffeyville, Kansas, and Fred, of El Paso, Texas, and eleven grandchildren.

At an early age in life she accepted the faith of the Reformed church and had always led a Christian life.

The funeral services were held from her home at 575 East Second street at 10:30 o'clock Saturday with Rev. Riker officiating. Burial in Grandview cemetery.

Mrs. J. W. Karshner and brother, Wallace Strawser, of Salt Creek township, niece and nephew, of the deceased, attended the funeral.

OHIO ACTIVITIES
IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Nov. 26.—Ohio is always ready, at the slightest provocation, to supply the country with a president. When some other state, like Massachusetts, insists that one state shouldn't monopolize the job, the Buckeye State turns its attention to producing U. S. Senators for its neighbor, Indiana.

The Hoosier State can hold its own, and then some, when it comes to turning out novelists, poets, editors, newspaper correspondents and other writers. Occasionally it produces a vice-presidential candidate. And there is indigenous to Indiana soil a brand of politics and politicians such as no other state can boast.

But when it comes to producing a genuine, native, home-grown Hoosier senator, Indiana doesn't seem equal to the task. That is, not very often. Once in a while a native son comes to Washington, but he doesn't usually repeat and most always his colleague is Ohio-born.

Look To Ohio.

Indiana has a distinct penchant for Ohio-born senators, as was demonstrated in the recent appointment of Arthur R. Robinson of Indianapolis to succeed the late Senator Samuel M. Ralston of the same city.

Robinson is not only Ohio-born, but Ohio-educated and Ohio-married. He is a native of Pickerington, Fairfield county, and learned his politics from Ohio's two senators—Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Fess while attending Ohio Northwestern University, where they were teachers.

He is a Republican but Ohio cheerfully furnishes Republicans and Democrats alike for Hoosier senators. Ralston was a Democrat, a native of Tuscarawas county which produced also that brilliant flower of Democracy—A. Victor Donahey.

Albert Jeremiah Beveridge, who represented Indiana for 12 years in the senate and whom that state claims as its very own, was born on an Adams county, Ohio, farm. For writing his monumental four-volume life of John Marshall and his colossal and still unfinished life of Abraham Lincoln, he may have acquired some Indiana literary ability but the Buckeye state takes credit for his statesmanship.

Fairbanks a Buckeye.

Much as Indiana dislikes to admit it, another native Ohioan served that state in the senate with distinction during the past quarter of a century. This was none other than Charles Warren Fairbanks, better known perhaps as "Buttermilk Charlie," who also achieved fame as vice president.

Fairbanks was born on a farm in Union county. His brother, Newton Fairbanks, of Springfield, has long been prominent in Ohio politics and not many years ago was chairman of the Republican state central committee.

Proud Hoosiers who readily concede their debt to Ohio for senatorial material are much chagrined when forced to acknowledge similar dependence on their sister state for their boasted vice presidential material. For it is sad but true that two of Indiana's four vice presidents—Fairbanks and Thomas A. Hendricks—were born in Ohio. Hendricks, who was elected with Grover Cleveland in 1884, was a native of Muskingum county.

Another sensitive subject with Hoosiers is Benjamin Harrison, Indiana's lone contribution to the presidency. They claim him as an Indiana president and so he was so far as his residence and citizenship at the time of his election is concerned. But, as the records show, Harrison was born in Butler county, Ohio.

Indiana isn't the only state that Ohio supplies senatorial material for. For the State of Washington, for example, Ohio donates the services of Clarence C. Dill, a native of Knox county. For the State of Nebraska, it contributes that irascible insurgent, George W. Norris, the product of a Sandusky county farm. And for the State of Missouri, it generously gives that brilliant master of invectives—James A. Reed, who opened his eyes first in Richland county. Dill and Reed are Democrats while Norris is nominally a Republican.

Mule "Swap" Brought
Fortune to Lucky Man

Eleven years ago Joseph Beach of Caldwell, N. J., drove his balky mule Maud, down the streets of the village and met John Gosman. They stopped to talk. Then Gosman noticed the flitting Maud.

"How'll you swap, Joe?" asked Gosman.

"Can't say, John," replied Beach. "What you got?"

"Got a piece of land down Florida way: Palm Beach or West Palm Beach, some such a place," Gosman answered.

"Worth $75, you reckon?" Beach asked.

"Guess so, let's swap," Gosman replied.

And they signed the papers.

Beach is departing for West Palm Beach soon to look at the property, for which he has been offered a small fortune.

Seven-Ton Meteorite Found in Greenland

Aberdeen, Scotland.—The third largest meteorite in the world just arrived here from Greenland aboard the Danish schooner Sokongen. Nobody here has yet seen the stone, but Captain Pedersen of the Sokongen says it weighs seven tons.

Eskimos are said to have stated that the meteorite fell in 1918 and that they had been dragging it toward the coast on dog sledges since 1923. Much difficulty was encountered in taking the meteorite on board the Sokongen. Captain Pedersen said he had much trouble in steering his vessel to Aberdeen, because the stone deflected the compass.

The Sokongen in 1924 rescued the Danish explorer, Peter Freuchen, who had been lost in Badin Land for three years.

Of the two larger meteorites in existence, one is in the United States and the other in Great Britain.

Army Officers Work for Roll-Neck Coat

Washington.—Adoption by the army of coats with roll necks for all branches of the service, as recently authorized for air officers, is regarded as considerably nearer by many officers attached to the War department.

It was disclosed that a definite step in this direction has been made by Maj. Gen. Creed C. Hammond, chief of the military bureau, who has addressed circular letters to the adjutant general of all states requesting the views of National Guard officers on the subject. General Hammond entertains no doubt that the majority preference will be for the roll collar.

The proponents of the change assert that the present high and tight-fitting collar is a source of discomfort that far outweighs the "military appearance" ascribed to it as one of its virtues by those who advocate its retention.

He that raises false hopes to serve a purpose only makes a way for disappointment and discontent.

To obtain what is unjust from the just is wrong, but to seek what is just from the unjust is folly.

Important Point

As the man driving a weather-beaten mule attached to a rickety buggy came near, the automobilist stopped and hailed him. Good afternoons were exchanged and then the automobilist inquired, "How far is it to the next town?" The other reflected at length and finally asked, "Well, just what is your idea of a town?"

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Boston Uses Theater as School for Culture

Boston.—The opening of the Repertory theater of Boston with Sheridan's "The Rivals," gives official recognition to a theater as an educational institution, and thus is exempted from taxation.

Patterned somewhat along the lines of many civic theaters of Europe, the workers on this stage will strive not only for the perfection of their art, but also to give earnest students of the drama a chance to absorb the real atmosphere of the theater.

Its educational efforts will be to present plays of artistic merit to the public, to interest high school students in the theater, and to train and teach embryo actors and actresses.

Professional actors and actresses will play the characters while students look on at rehearsals and receive their instruction from these same professionals.

The theater is the outcome of years of effort, and for Henry Jewett, its director, and Mrs. Jewett, who has been the guiding hand in many phases of the work, it is a vision realized.

Finances of the theater will be handled by a board of trustees and the entire project will be non-profit making.

Mr. Jewett hopes eventually to buy original plays and send out road companies to show other cities what the Repertory theater is doing in the hope that similar projects may be launched elsewhere.

The theater itself cost $150,000 and embraces all that is modern. It will accommodate 499 people.

AMUSEMENTS

Marion Davies in her latest photoplay, "Yolanda" will be the next attraction at the Met theater on Monday for two days.

"Yolanda" is a picturization of Charles Major's historical romance of the name. It is woven around the romance of Princess Mary of Burgundy, who, in the masquerade of the burglar girl, Yolanda, wins the love of Europe's most dashing prince. The story is set in the fifteenth century, in the period of Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy.

Holbrook Blinn appears as the evil King Louis XI; Lyn Harding has the role of Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy; Ralph Graves is the romantic lover, Prince Maximilian; Johnny Dooley appears as the half witted Dauphin, son of Louis; Leon Errol, the star of "Sally," plays the part of a comedy innkeeper and Maclyn Arbuckle is seen as the bishop.

Others who also appear in the film are: Ian MacLaren, Mary Kennedy, Theresa Maxwell Conover, Paul McAllister, Arthur Donaldson, Roy Applegate and Gustav von Seyffertitz.

"Yolanda" is said to be the most stupendous motion picture which Miss Davies has yet essayed. In magnificent, romance of story, swift dramatic action and historical accuracy, it is said to excel Miss Davies' production, "When Knighthood Was In Flower."

Robert G. Vignola directed "Yolanda" from the scenario by Luther Reed. Joseph Urban designed the settings.

PIG CLUB BOYS' ACCOUNT OF TRIP TO PITTSBURGH

Winners Were Royally Entertained and Shown Every Courtesy By Busy Business Men of the "Smoky City"—Impressions of the Journey and of the Sights In the Big Town—Digest of Writings Printed In Live Stock Journal.

Even Phillips, Francis McKenzie, Harold Davis, of Pickaway township; Paul Graffis, of Washington township; John Fullen and Harry Carpenter, of Muhlenberg township; Donald Carter and Dennis Lamb, of Deercreek township, members of the Pig clubs won trips to Pittsburgh and the following digest of what they saw was printed in the Livestock Journal:

Saturday morning, November 7, we went to Circleville, and at the Pickaway County stock yards saw several truck loads of hogs and calves brought in from the farm. The hogs were unloaded, weighed and graded by Mr. Briggs and Mr. Swearingen and put in the pens. The calves were weighed and each one marked with a different mark on the back. They were then loaded on the train. One double-deck of fine sorted hogs was shipped to Zanesville and another load of mixed hogs and calves were shipped to Pittsburgh.

Mr. Bragg gave us final instructions for our trip and we were told to be on hand at 9:30 Sunday morning at the traction depot in Circleville.

We were up bright and early Sunday morning for fear we would miss the train. I met the other boys at the Farm Bureau office. We had our picture taken by Mr. Martin. Mr. Bragg, Mr. Briggs, Mr. Swearingen and Mr. Rector went with us.

We left Circleville at 10:10 o'clock for Columbus. Mr. Russel East, of the Pennsylvania railroad was waiting for us in Columbus. We just had time to make the train that left for Pittsburgh at 1:12.

We went thru a nice farming country in central Ohio, but as we came to the eastern part it was rough and hilly. In Ohio our train only stopped at Newark, Frazeysburg, Trinway, Co-shooton, New Comerstown, Dennison and Steubenville. We crossed the river at Steubenville where the Pennsylvania railroad is putting in a new bridge that will take two years to finish and will cost over $3,000,000. After crossing the Ohio river we passed thru the northern neck of West Virginia. It is only ten miles across West Virginia at this point into Pennsylvania. It was dark by this time and we did not see much of Pennsylvania.

We arrived at Pittsburgh at 6:40 p. m., where we were met by Mr. L. C. Breidenbach, manager of the Producers Co-operative Commission association. Mr. Breidenbach was the first person to say "Hello, boys!" in Pittsburgh and was the last person to say "Good-bye." He was with us all of the time we were there and could not do enough for us. By the time we left he was "Uncle Louie" to all of us. He took us to the Stock Yards hotel, where we had supper, and soon were ready for bed.

Early Monday morning, the first man on the job "Uncle Louie," ready to show us thru the stock yards. The stock yards are on Herrs Island in the Allegheny river, an island of 36 acres, on which is located the Pittsburgh Provision & Packing company. The yards are covered and have elevated walks so that you can walk right over the stock pens. We saw where all the stock is unloaded, and were told just how every car is handled from the time it gets in until it is sold. There are eleven firms selling stocks in the yards.

Each firm has its own part of the yard to work in. We went to the place where our own Producers Co-operative company sells our hogs, and there in a pen were the same hogs we saw loaded in Circleville on Saturday. Mr. Claiborne, the hog salesman, let us help sort these hogs, and we helped weigh nine of them which he had sold to the Pittsburgh Provision & Packing company.

They are not allowed to sell anything in the yards until nine o'clock, when a bell rings, but we had a special permit to sell and weigh up these nine hogs so that we could see them killed and dressed.

While these hogs were being taken over to the packing company, we went over to see the Pickaway county calves sold. Mr. Stevens, the sheep and calf salesman, showed us how he grades and sells calves and sheep.

Mr. Briggs had a fine load of cattle on the market, which he had shipped for Mr. James Tootle, of Wayne township. We went over and watched Mr. Harry Forman, the cattle salesman, sell the Pickaway county cattle for the top of the market.

We then hurried over to the packing company where several hundred men were hustling around getting ready for the day's work. Here again we met our Pickaway county hogs in a small pen. By special arrangements our hogs were kept separate and killed first. When the whistle blew, all was ready, every man in his place, and the hogs started on their last trip.

The man hooked a chain around their hind leg and hooked them on a big revolving wheel from where they went on to an overhead track and never stopped until they were in the cooling room. Every man had a special job and did nothing else. One man stuck them, another scalded them a machine took off the hair. They were washed and well cleaned singed, head almost cut off, cut open, insides removed and sorted, split open, well cleaned and washed and now again weighed with only leaf lard in and head on. This final weight gives the yield or dressed weight. The heads are now taken off, leaf lard removed, and the carcass went to the cooling room, where it is cut up and sold either as fresh or cured meat.

One of our hogs weighed 250 pounds in the stock yards and after being killed and dressed weighed 186 pounds. Our other eight weighed 1810 in the yards and 1400 pounds dressed weight.

We also saw them kill and dress cattle. This is done about the same way.

After a fine dinner given us by the packing company, we were shown all thru their place in the afternoon. We saw them cutting up meat, making sausage and weinies, curing and smoking meat and selling fresh meat. Hundreds of cattle, calves, sheep and hogs were hanging in the cooling rooms.

We went thru the Livestock Exchange building and were introduced to many of the men there. Mr. Sterling Price, a government supervisor, gave us a nice talk about his work. We met the general manager of the packing company, and Evan Phillips thanked him on our behalf for the fine treatment and the good dinner. "Uncle Louie" now loaded us in an automobile and headed for the Ford assembly plant. We spent the rest of the afternoon going all thru this place. We saw them assemble Fords from start to finish. Here we saw a moving track of Fords with every man doing his special work.

From here we went to the office of the National Stockman and Farmer, where we met Mr. E. S. Bayard, the editor. He was a Pickaway county boy and knew many people back home. We were sorry to learn here that Mr. Thomas D. Harman, president of the company, and also a former Pickaway county boy, had just died that evening.

Tuesday morning we spent some time in the office of the Producers, and Mr. Frank Tucker, bookkeeper, explained to us how returns are made out and sent back to the farmer for his stock. Mr. G. G. Sharpless, traffic manager of the stockyards, also gave us a fine talk about the stock yards and explained everything to us. Mr. Sharpless spent the entire day with us. He and "Uncle Louie" took us in their automobiles to the Westinghouse Electric company in East Pittsburgh, where we were shown thru the biggest electrical company in the world. It covers 50 acres.

The Education department of this company entertained us at a dinner in the East Pittsburgh Rotary club room. From here to the Heinz pickle factory for a short inspection and at 3 p. m., Mr. Russell East conducted us thru the entire Pennsylvania railroad system of Pittsburgh. First we met the vice president, Mr. E. T. Whiter, who received us and had his picture taken with us. Then to the offices of the other department heads.

The treasurer of the Pennsylvania railroad received us and personally told us all about how he handled the money of this great railroad. His receipts are over a million dollars each day. He took us thru the great vaults and allowed us to handle and examine millions of dollars in bonds and securities.

We were shown how trains are made up and operated, and were taken thru the big baggage and parcel post room, which was wonderful, and then down in the yards to the signal tower and were shown how all trains are operated in these big yards. We were even allowed to throw the switches and be real railroad men for a while.

Very few people get to visit the places and see the things we were allowed to see. We hurried back to the hotel, where Mr. Sharpless tendered us a banquet, special menus, place cards and real eating, after which he entertained us at a theater party. At 12:40 a. m., we started for home in a Pullman sleeper. We arrived home tired but happy, in time for school Wednesday.

Everybody treated us fine and our thanks are due to everyone who contributed in any way to the success of our trip. Mr. and Mrs. Hallman, of the Stock Yards hotel, made us feel at home and turned their hotel over to our management while with them.

We will never forget "Uncle Louie" Mr. East and Mr. and Mrs. Hallman.—Pittsburgh Live Stock Journal.

If only people had a little flivver sense to replace horse sense.

Helpful Habit

A Chicago newspaper writer went out to investigate Hollywood. She was greatly surprised when she discovered how many of the picture people were happily married, had children in the public schools, and were active in building up the community.

"I always thought," she confided, "that marriage was supposed to interfere with art, but this does not seem to be the case at all."

"It doesn't interfere at all," replied a Los Angeles writer, "if you marry often enough."—Los Angeles Times.

Lesson for November 29PAUL BEFORE AGRIPPA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 25:1-26:32.
GOLDEN TEXT—"I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision."—Acts 26:19.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells Why He Obeyed Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Tells a King About Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Obedience to the Heavenly Vision.
VOICE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Defense of His Mission.

More than two years had elapsed since Paul had been tried before Felix, during which time Jewish hatred for him had not abated. As soon as Festus, the new governor, went to Jerusalem he was besieged with accusations against Paul. His accusers desired that he be brought to Jerusalem for trial, intending to lie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus refused their request, but agreed to give them an opportunity to accuse Paul if they would go down to Caesarea. They were unable to prove anything against him. Festus, willing to please the Jews, proposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial. Paul rebuked Festus for this, declaring that he knew very well that he was innocent. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice before Festus, Paul made use of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar. This surprised Festus. His failure to release an innocent man placed him in an awkward position for he could give no explanation as to why an innocent man should go to Rome for trial.

I. Paul Before the King (25:13-27).

The occasion of his appearing before Agrippa was the visit of Agrippa and Bernice to Festus. Upon their arrival they expressed a desire to hear Paul, whereupon Festus told them of his perplexity. So it was arranged that Paul be brought before them for examination. The gospel should be preached to all regardless of wealth or station in life.

II. Paul's Defense Before Agrippa (26:1-27).

1. The Introduction (vv. 1-3).
He expressed his delight that he now could speak and tell his case to one who was able to follow his line of argument, for Agrippa was an expert in questions concerning the Jews; but most of all he was now happy in witnessing to him of the Savior, and perhaps leading him into the light of God.

2. His Manner of Life (vv. 4-12).
This he showed had been in strictest accord with the most rigid sect of Jews. He possessed the same hope, i. e., that of a coming Deliverer, and reminded them of the fact that formerly he was most bitterly opposed to Christ as his zeal would prove.

3. His Supernatural Conversion (vv. 13-15).

Jesus Christ appeared to him on the way to Damascus and revealed Himself to him.

4. Jesus Christ Commissioned Him for His Work (vv. 16-18).

He was sent unto the Gentiles:
(1) To open their eyes so awfully blinded.

(2) To perform the blessed work of turning them from darkness to light.
(3) To turn them from the power of Satan unto God.

(4) That they might receive forgiveness of sins.
(5) And that they might obtain an inheritance among the saints.

5. His Consecration (vv. 19-23).
As soon as he received his commission, he obeyed. Every man should instantly obey the call of God and devote his life to carrying forward the work entrusted to him. The vigorous prosecution of his work brought him into conflict with the Jews, for which they sought to kill him.

6. The Interruption by Festus (vv. 24).

Seeing how thoroughly in earnest Paul was, Festus attempted to account for it by calling him a crank, attributing it to the ravings of an unbalanced mind.

7. Paul's Appeal to Agrippa (vv. 25-27).

Still maintaining his courage, he appealed to Agrippa's knowledge of the work of Jesus and of the prophets for they have an intimate connection.

III. Agrippa Almost Persuaded (vv. 28-32).

Whether Agrippa's answer was a contemptuous sneer or not, it is quite evident that his soul was wrought upon. He saw the claim of Christ upon him but was unwilling to yield. Sad indeed, that a man should be so near to eternal life, and yet lost! Paul took Agrippa seriously. His heart longed that Agrippa, and all concerned, might accept Christ and be saved.

Kitchen Economy From the Man's An

MEN long ago learned that no business could be successfully run without the application of systematic business methods. They feel that women, who have progressed in so many directions, should be more ready to apply to their own special activities the methods which men have found good.

These methods have made for success in running everything masculine from a carpenter-shop to a railroad. Why not apply them to running a home? Men claim that women do not use their brains in conducting their housework; that they get into a rut and stay there, doing things as their grandmothers did, instead of taking advantage of the various improvements and aids which modern science and invention have placed at their disposal.

The humblest artisan would not use inferior tools in his shop. And no wide-awake business man would equip his office with makeshifts and "get along with them," just because his father and grandfather before him had found them adequate to their needs. Yet many a housewife does these very things in her home, using left-overs and hand-me-downs in the way of utensils and employing methods of a similar outworn type.

Our grandmothers were compelled to do their own preserving, and spent long hours of hard work and drudgery in the doing of it. Much of the food they put up spoiled, because they lacked both scientific knowledge and proper implements. But, today, great canneries all over the country have taken over this labor, and are doing it according to the latest improved methods and scientific discoveries. Vast, complicated systems of machinery perform miracles utterly beyond the power of the housewife in her kitchen. Sanitary measures are enforced as not even the most scrupulous home-canner can regulate them. Through mechanical processes sterilization is achieved—as no amateur can possibly achieve it. And, through mechanical means of preventing oxidation, more vitamins are retained than is possible in home-cooking.

Why, then, should not the housewife utilize this splendid industry which saves her time, labor and responsibility, and makes it possible for her to give her family nourishing, palatable meals, while permitting her entrance to a wider field of activities?

A man, temporarily abandoned by his women-folk during an emergency or vacation period, and left to depend upon his own resources in the matter of cooking, will instinctively make use of the handiest means available for preparing his meals. Invention having provided him with a typewriter, it would never occur to him to write out all of his business by hand. "I can see no reason," one man declares, "for perking over a hot stove, during long hours of a summer day, in the preparation of foods which have been much better prepared for me in a cannery, and need only to be taken from the can, reheated and placed on the table, all ready to eat."

He finds it all so easy—and speedy—that he cannot understand why his wife is always complaining of being overworked. The woman who has been clinging to old-fashioned methods will do well to take her husband's advice on the subject of modernizing them. Women, today, are using the masculine knicker and hair-cut, copying the masculine swagger and slang and freedom from convention. Why will they not also copy masculine business methods and apply them in their own special domain—the home?

Men have learned, too, that the use of up-to-date methods usually makes for economy. They have acquired the ability to discriminate between real and false economy, whereas the majority of women are sadly lacking in such discrimination. Going on the principle that they can save money by doing work themselves, they will buy large quantities of so-called fresh fruits or vegetables—many of which will have become spoiled by the time the housewife can get around to preparing them. She will spend weary hours over a hot stove, until, by the time the job of preserving is over, she is too physically tired to be a good companion to her husband or children, or to fulfill any of the outside duties which modern life entails upon her. The masculine mind justly regards this as a false and futile economy, from every point of view, when he considers that she could have purchased from her grocer, at moderate prices, the purest and best food there is, all in tins and ready to serve.

"Magic Casements" Beautify the Home

BY AGNES PORTER
"Charm'd magic casements, opening on the foam
Of perilous seas, in fairy lands forlorn."

BY MANY, those two lines of Keat's are considered the most beautiful in all English verse. However that may be, there is no doubt about the appropriateness of the use of the adjective "magic"; for casements—all windows—are capable of performing a sort of sorcery in adding to the beauty of the home and the pleasure of those who dwell within it.

Just as the eyes of a human being, if they are clear and wide open, give you a pleasant impression of the person, so the windows of a house, if they are well glazed, well designed, well placed, and well curtained, give you a pleasant impression of the house. For this reason the woman who is proud of her home will devote as much thought to the windows and their curtaining as to any of the other details which naturally fall within her province.

touch of aesthetic satisfaction. At the same time, the curtains act as the harmonizing medium between the furniture and the walls of room or hall. They are not so prominent as the furniture, nor so reticent as the walls; and so they naturally take the middle course, striking the note of grace and charm, after the other essentials have been provided.

The type of curtain to be used chiefly depends upon the architectural features of the window. As a general rule, curtains may be hung straight or looped back with cords; they may be hung only to the sill or all the way to the floor.

If the window casing is built straight from the top to the floor curtains should usually be hung in the same manner. The height of the ceiling is also an important consideration, for the longer the straight side curtains are the higher the room will look. The shorter they are, the lower the ceiling of the room will seem to descend. The use of a valance, or looping the curtains with cords, will always serve to diminish the apparent height of the ceiling.

room. A rich gamask curtain would be as unsuitable for a Mission card room as a rag carpet in a gilded ball room. Expense, too, will play a part in the selection of the material, but expense need never be a bar to lovely and ingenious effects.

The richest silks and velvets money will buy can add no more to the appealing charm of a room than is attainable with cretonnes, chintzes, dotted swiss, or even with a few lengths of unbleached muslin, a dye pot, and a venture-some spirit. In the dyeing of the fabric practice makes perfect as it does in most worthwhile things; so it is better to experiment at first with a few samples thrown into the dye pot.

The dyed fabric can be stitched with quaint designs in wool, or it will form an excellent background for brilliant Japanese flowers of cotton crepe. But until you have tried you will never know the joy of blending colors to attain something really unusual—rich peacock shades, glowing amber, and softest lilac. Nor until you try your hand will you have the added joy of evolving striking and original effects with your own well thought out designs.

Plate Glass Fills Bill
Every window of the ordinary type has four main functions. It must admit the light of the sun. It must be capable of admitting its proportional amount of ventilation. It must offer a clear and unobstructed view. It must harmonize with the general architectural design.

The glass, therefore, must be faultless in its texture, and it must have that brilliant lustre which does so much to add to the appearance of the home a subtle air of cheerfulness and distinction. There is no difficulty about obtaining such a glass. Plate glass fills the bill perfectly, and it can be supplied by any builder or competent glazier.

The Curtains
The choice of the glass is of the utmost importance, but nearly every window needs the graceful folds of the curtain to give the final

OHIO WOMAN IS HELD IN BOMB PLOT

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Lena Rice, daughter of H. C. Schrock, of Richwood, O., and mother of three children who, she admits, she left to the care of her father, after leaving her husband, spent Thanksgiving in the office of State's Attorney Crowe, under questioning for her part in the placing of a bomb in front of a Chicago hardware store this morning.

The woman probably will be charged with complicity with a bomb ring, said to be operating here and which is blamed for a dozen recent bombings of Chicago business places. The bombings were "pulled off" for $150 or $200 each. State's Attorney Crowe said his informers had told him.

Mrs. Rice was a "tool" in the hands of the syndicate, in Mr. Crowe's opinion. Her companions when she was arrested are Fred Wanquist and Joseph Avanzo. Wanquist first met Mrs. Rice at Battle Creek, Mich., where she has relatives, it was learned, and he is believed to be partly responsible for the disruption of her home. She is divorced from, or has deserted her husband, according to Chicago police records.

Her part in the bombings, police said, was to deliver the bombs, which usually were about a foot in length and loaded with four sticks of dynamite. These, she would carry beneath a cape and as she passed the "marked place" would drop the bomb and be on her way.

Her two companions were wounded by bullets from policemen's revolvers as they tried to escape arrest today.

Sun Rays Bring Life to Long Dormant Child

London.—Specialists at the London hospital are using solar rays to work the "rejuvenation" of a boy baby, who upon birth two years ago had every appearance of advanced age and who, until a few weeks ago, had never aroused from a deep slumber.

"Baby Rip Van Winkle," as he was dubbed by the medical men, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen of Highgate. According to his mother he never cried, but lay motionless for a year, life being sustained by artificial feeding.

"His body was stone cold, even in summer," she said. "He was just like an old, old man."

Doctors at first considered the case hopeless, but at a conference of 24 specialists several weeks ago it was determined to make a final effort to save the baby's life by the use of solar rays. His milk diet also was changed to one of fruit juices.

The other day, to the astonishment of the hospital attendants, the baby began to cry and then to fuss and squirm like an ordinary infant. Now he is growing teeth. The specialists believe that within two years he will be a normal child.

Blind Pair Marry After Long Courtship

New York.—The blind led the blind to the altar in Adams Memorial Presbyterian church, where Joseph L. Bennett and Miss Eva Brasseur, both blind for more than twenty years, were married by Rev. Harold S. Rambo.

As he stood at the altar, the hand of his bride in his, Bennett, who is fifty-three, remembered her as a girl of twenty, his sweetheart then. She is now forty-nine.

"That is the way I shall always think of her," he said.

Mrs. Bennett became blind 22 years ago.

Bennett's hands fumbled as the bride shyly held her finger to receive the ring which neither will ever see. But, they smiled.

The bridegroom lost his sight through the explosion of a stick of dynamite in a mine.

SISTER OF MAN HIRING SPECIAL TRAIN IS DEAD

Mrs. Electra Wharton of New York Will Be Taken Back To Texas For Burial.

New York, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Electra Waggoner Wharton, of Fort Worth, Texas, whose illness caused her brother, Guy Waggoner, to make a trip by special train, died today in a hospital from a complication of diseases.

Mr. Waggoner, a wealthy oil man in Fort Worth, had been constantly at the bedside since his arrival here on Nov. 16. Missing connections at St. Louis, he hired a special train to New York for $5,607 and it broke records.

Mrs. Wharton was 45 years old and had been married three times. Her first husband was Thomas Wharton, her second Weldon Bailey and her third James A. Gilmore. The body will be sent to Fort Worth.

Boy Finds It Difficult to Live on $12,000 a Year

Honolulu.—Mrs. Elizabeth Knight of Los Angeles, Cal., recently appeared with her twelve-year-old grandson, Richard Parker Smart, before Judge John R. Desha of the Court of Domestic Relations, and complained that it has been very difficult for young Richard to live within his annual allowance of $12,000.

The boy, owner of the large Parker ranch on the island of Hawaii, is reputed to be a millionaire. The grandmother, as his guardian, petitioned the court to increase the allowance to $16,500, which was granted.

Mrs. Knight told the court that the servants employed in her home for the benefit of young Richard cost approximately $400 a month. In addition to the increased annual allowance the court authorized an expenditure of $2,500 to cover the cost of the boy's vacation in Hawaii and $1,800 for distribution by the youngster among the employees of his cattle ranch when he visits his property to be the guest of the staff and cowboys.

Would Use Blimp in Flight to North Pole

Washington.—Lighter-than-air machines, like the dirigibles Shenandoah and Los Angeles, are in the opinion of Commander Donald B. MacMillan, the type of craft best suited to overcome the ice hazards that the Far North presents to the explorer.

Continually drifting ice floes, he has radioed the National Geographic society, make uncertain the landing of heavier-than-air machines, as one day a fjord may be open only to be ice-bound the next.

Under such conditions, he said, a cache established by an airplane, "is not a help, but a menace, for if depended upon and a plane arrives out of fuel, destruction is certain."

"The lighter-than-air machines can do the work," he added, "and should do it at the earliest opportunity."

ANTIDOTE FOR ACID BURNS

Acid from a battery accidentally splashed on the hands can be quickly removed by simply washing with ordinary soap and cold water. One of the main ingredients of soap is a substance which, when put in contact with acid, quickly neutralizes the latter's sharp characteristics, so soap is the best antidote for acid burns.

Not Too Hard-Headed to Dye His Whiskers

A lecturer on art recently spoke before a group of men in an industrial city, according to Fred C. Kelly, urging upon them the duty of trying to put more beauty into their surroundings. At the close of the talk, a leading citizen came up to have a few words with the lecturer.

"I enjoyed your talk," he said.
"though I didn't agree with you. The fact is that we have no time here for beauty. The prosperity of this town is due to hard-headed, practical men. We are doing things and can't bother to think about being beautiful."

"Yet," retorted the lecturer, smiling, "you yourself are seeking beauty, according to your lights. You may not have found it, but I know you are aiming at what you think makes for greater attractiveness."

"No, you're wrong," insisted the hard-headed, practical man. "I'm not interested in beauty."

"Then," said the lecturer, "if you don't mind my being so personal, will you please tell me why you have dyed
your whiskers?"

Appeal to States in War on Steel Trap

Washington.—Officials of the newly organized antisteel trap league are preparing a pamphlet written by Edward Breck, writer, lecturer and former navy officer, who is president of the organization, appealing for general support of the league's program, which covers both the United States and Canada. This program the organization's officials summarize as follows:

"We propose to bring about the passage of a law by all the state and provincial legislatures making illegal all use of the torturing steel trap and other non-killing devices for taking fur, except by the authorities in the case of vermin."

Every woman who ever wore fur
will be asked to contribute $1.

WARRING CHINESE GENERALS TO FIGHT

MIGHTY RULER OF MANCHURIA RECEIVES FENG'S ULTIMATUM

Either You Quit Politics Or Fight It Out Is the Challenge Sent By the Christian General To the Manchurian Warlord—Threatens to Order Attack Immediately—Troops Tighten Grip On Peking—U. S. Sends Warships From Manila.

The U. S. destroyer McCormick left Manila for Shanghai on account of threatening conditions in China. Three other destroyers are held in readiness to proceed to China.

The "Christian General" Feng Yu-hsiang Friday served public notice on Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, one all powerful ruler of Manchuria, to quit politics or fight. Feng sent the Mukden leader a message urging him to retire. Otherwise, he declared, he would attack immediately.

Peking remained outwardly calm in spite of this culmination of the spectacular march of events, which has made the anti-foreign Feng virtually master of Peking and threatens to eliminate Chang from the political arena.

Altho dispatches from Mukden said Chang Tso-Lin was determined to fight to the last, other defections among his followers were reported, making his stand seem like a forlorn hope. Meanwhile an additional division and other troops of the "Christian generals" forces were taking their places in the garrison of Peking, tightening the grip of Feng on the capital. His early arrival in Peking from headquarters in Kalgan is considered probable.

The chief executive, Marshal Tusan Chi-Jui, still remain in Peking, in spite of his desire, expressed to the cabinet to resign and free himself of the imbroglio into which northern China has been thrown. He is understood to have received assurances from Yu-Hsiang and Li Ching-Ling, civil governor of Chihli, in which Peking is located, that the peace will not be disturbed. Li, formerly a henchman of Chang Tso-Lin, has declared himself free of that connection.

Chang Tso-Lin is pictured in Mukden dispatches as determined to reject the demands for his retirement, some of which come from his former followers, and to defend his position in Manchuria.

A sudden whiff of unexpected developments in China has left officials at Washington and apparently in Peking completely mystified as to what new turn to expect in the political-military struggle of the three great provincial war lords.

The fall of Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian dictator for many years and heretofore regarded as the most strongly placed of the trio, was indicated in meager advices Friday from Minister McMurray at Peking. The revolt at Mukden, followed by the breaking away of provincial chiefs previously allied with Chang in Tientsin and elsewhere, came out of a clear sky.

The most probable explanation of the revolt in Chang's ranks, as seen by informed officials, is that he is regarded as an outlander by the Chinese whenever he passes to the south of the great Chinese wall, which was built long ago to prevent Manchurian incursions. The conquest of Manchuria by a leader from China would be a much easier thing to visualize in the Chinese popular view, than that a Manchurian should exercise power south of the wall.

"Black Glass" Enables Photograph in Darkness

Tokyo.—After several years' investigation, Jusel Sugiyu, a scientist of the industrial experimental station of Osaka, is reported to have invented a black glass of a special kind which is expected to prove of great military value. It is said the glass is opaque to all but ultraviolet rays, and, by its use, battle formations or the movements of an enemy can be easily photographed in darkness without detection. Moving pictures, it is claimed, can also be taken in the dark by its use.

Experiments with the new glass made recently in the presence of Rear Admiral Muto are said to have proved a complete success.

The inventor declares the glass will be found valuable in medical treatment.

POPULATION OF PRISONS INCREASING

Employment is One of The Outstanding Problems of The System.

An interesting contribution to the argument as to whether prohibition has decreased or increased crime in the United States was furnished by the department of justice, when it was announced that the federal prison population in the country had increased 15 percent in the past year.

A woman's penal farm will be established at Alderson, West Virginia, while a first offenders' prison for men is planned at Camp Sherman, Ross county.

It cost $1,748,000 to operate the Atlanta, Leavenworth and McNeil Island institutions in the 1925 fiscal year, an increase of $200,000 over the previous period. This does not include the amount expended by the government to "farm out" prisoners to county and municipal jails and the state penitentiaries.

"One of the outstanding problems in the administration of the prison system is that relating to the proper employment of prisoners," Luther C. White, federal superintendent of prisoners, said in a report to Attorney General Sargent.

"There are now many able-bodied inmates of the federal prisons in enforced idleness.

"Plans are being made by the department that this particular situation may be presented to congress with a view to obtaining authority for the inauguration of new enterprises which will enable the manufacture within the institutions of needed supplies for the different branches of the government.

"The operation of the cotton duck mill at Atlanta penitentiary is emphasized as an illustration of what can be accomplished thru the proper employment of federal prisoners."

NONAGENARIAN

Mrs. Jacob Haynes Passed Away at Chillicothe Hospital Thursday.

Mary Martha Haynes, aged 89, passed peacefully away on Thursday afternoon at the City hospital in Chillicothe of infirmities of old age. She was the daughter of Henry and Drusilla Strawser, one of the pioneer families of Colerain township, Ross county, being the last of a family of thirteen children. Mary Martha Strawser was born in Colerain township, Ross county, on May 31, 1836. On April 4, 1863, she united in marriage with Jacob Haynes, who recently preceded her to the life beyond. Those left to mourn their loss are: Mrs. H. A. Barnhart, of Chillicothe; William F., of Toledo; Motes, Coffeyville, Kansas; and Fred, of El Paso, Texas, and eleven grandchildren.

At an early age in life she accepted the faith of the Reformed church and had always led a Christian life.

The funeral services were held from her home at 575 East Second street at 10:30 o'clock Saturday with Rev. Riker officiating. Burial in Grandview cemetery.

Mrs. J. W. Karshner and brother, Wallace Strawser, of Salt Creek township, niece and nephew, of the deceased, attended the funeral.

Louisiana Plans Huge Memorial to Longfellow

New Orleans.—The Longfellow-Evangeline memorial when erected will be made up of three figures cut into a monument that will stand on the banks of the Bayou Teche, near St. Martinville.

The monument will arise in a fifty-acre park, almost on the spot where the forlorn Arcadian girl kept her unfulfilled tryst with the banished Gabriel.

For years, tourists have visited the beautiful Evangeline country of Louisiana and have marveled at the beauty of the moss-hung oaks beneath which Evangeline awaited her lover. In the center of the park will be a wading pool surrounded by figures symbolic of the poem, Youth, Gladness, Love and Despair, over which will stand the monument consisting of a figure of Longfellow and his two characters, Evangeline and Gabriel.

Funds for the project are being furnished by subscriptions from school children of the South and Longfellow-Evangeline associations everywhere.

Columbus—Distribution of the residuary estate of the late Gordon Battelle, assigning $1,527,736.25 to the Battelle Memorial institute and the same amount to the estate of the late Anna Battelle, was made in probate court here Friday.

The institute will soon be organized here for the study of metallurgy in compliance with Battelle's request.

Mrs. Battelle was a former Republican committee woman from Ohio.

Springfield—Mrs. Martha Wiley, 63, died here Friday from a fractured skull received last July from her son-in-law, Floyd Strawther, during a family quarrel. Strawther is in jail and in addition to a murder charge, is accused of beating his wife with an iron bar.

Marion—More than 100 delegates registered here Friday for the annual convention of the Ohio Baptist Young People which opened at the Trinity Baptist church here. Prominent Ohio churchmen were among the speakers.

Cincinnati—William Morris, Cincinnati, fell into a ladle of molten slag at the Andrews Steel company foundry here Friday and was burned to a crisp.

Police began an investigation on the theory that Morris was hurled into the ladle by a man with whom he had quarreled. Foundry officials said, however, that Morris fell and was seen by eyewitnesses.

Defiance—Little hope is held out for the recovery of Pearl Redkewicz, 13, a domestic who was severely burned when her clothing caught fire from an open grate.

Cleveland—Harry Bennis, 58, was crushed to death Friday when he was caught beneath the wheels of a trolley car. His body was mangled.

Cleveland—Silks valued at $15,000 were stolen from the Campen Brothers company, manufacturers of women's garments, some time during the night.

Gob Loses 173 Pounds; "Diet Did It," He Says

Philadelphia.—After a year and a half passed in watching himself disappear in large chunks, Chief Yeoman Clarence H. Hemery, U. S. N., at the League Island navy yard, has at last had something authentic in effective dieting to give a waiting world.

"It was not a miracle," began Clarence. "It was merely application. I determined to become thin and I did it."

It was just 18 months ago—and Clarence has photographs which prove it—that the chief yeoman battled the scales at 375 pounds, dinner table side. Today he weighs just 202 pounds, a decrease of exactly 173 pounds.

"I dieted," said Clarence, running his finger around the inside of his now roomy collar.

"I made up this list and day after day despite the temptations of cream-embellished coffee and juicy steaks I stuck to it. For one year and a half I have eaten nothing else. This is my regular daily allowance: Thirty ounces of vegetables, six ounces of lean meat, six ounces of lean fish, one whole egg, the whites of four eggs, four apples, two oranges, wheat bread and skimmed milk."

Policeman as "Outrider" to Protect the President

Policeman Bingham has been appointed as "outrider" to protect President Coolidge when he takes his walks about the capital streets. Bingham rides in advance of the President and makes sure that the President's life will not again be endangered by such an incident as occurred recently when a motorist, cutting a corner sharply, near ran him down.

A New York politician says he wants to sell Tammany to the South. But the South doesn't seem to be in the market.

The Cause

The entire Brown family was attacked by ptomaine poisoning. The family doctor was called, and as soon as emergency treatment had been administered he tried to find the source of the trouble.

"Did you all eat something that had been left standing in tin?" he asked.

Mr. Brown thought hard for a moment. "By gosh, doc," he cried, "that's just what we did. We had a picnic yesterday and we left the lunch in the car all morning!"—Judge.

OHIO ACTIVITIES
IN WASHINGTON

Washington, Nov. 26.—Ohio is always ready, at the slightest provocation, to supply the country with a president. When some other state, like Massachusetts, insists that one state shouldn't monopolize the job, the Buckeye State turns its attention to producing U. S. Senators for its neighbor, Indiana.

The Hoosier State can hold its own, and then some, when it comes to turning out novelists, poets, editors, newspaper correspondents and other writers. Occasionally it produces a vice-presidential candidate. And there is indigenous to Indiana soil a brand of politics and politicians such as no other state can boast.

But when it comes to producing a genuine, native, home-grown Hoosier senator, Indiana doesn't seem equal to the task. That is, not very often. Once in a while a native son comes to Washington, but he doesn't usually repeat and most always his colleague is Ohio-born.

Look To Ohio.

Indiana has a distinct penchant for Ohio-born senators, as was demonstrated in the recent appointment of Arthur R. Robinson of Indianapolis to succeed the late Senator Samuel M. Ralston of the same city.

Robinson is not only Ohio-born, but Ohio-educated and Ohio-married. He is a native of Pickerington, Fairfield county, and learned his politics from Ohio's two senators—Frank B. Willis and Simeon D. Fess while attending Ohio Northwestern University, where they were teachers.

He is a Republican but Ohio cheerfully furnishes Republicans and Democrats alike for Hoosier senators. Ralston was a Democrat, a native of Tuscarawas county which produced also that brilliant flower of Democracy—A. Victor Donahey.

Albert Jeremiah Beveridge, who represented Indiana for 12 years in the senate and whom that state claims as its very own, was born on an Adams county, Ohio, farm. For writing his monumental four-volume life of John Marshall and his colossal and still unfinished life of Abraham Lincoln, he may have acquired some Indiana literary ability but the Buckeye state takes credit for his statesmanship.

Fairbanks a Buckeye.

Much as Indiana dislikes to admit it, another native Ohioan served that state in the senate with distinction during the past quarter of a century. This was none other than Charles Warren Fairbanks, better known perhaps as "Buttermilk Charlie," who also achieved fame as vice president.

Fairbanks was born on a farm in Union county. His brother, Newton Fairbanks, of Springfield, has long been prominent in Ohio politics and not many years ago was chairman of the Republican state central committee.

Proud Hoosiers who readily concede their debt to Ohio for senatorial material are much chagrined when forced to acknowledge similar dependence on their sister state for their boasted vice presidential material. For it is sad but true that two of Indiana's four vice presidents—Fairbanks and Thomas A. Hendricks—were born in Ohio. Hendricks, who was elected with Grover Cleveland in 1884, was a native of Muskingum county.

Another sensitive subject with Hoosiers is Benjamin Harrison, Indiana's lone contribution to the presidency. They claim him as an Indiana president and so he was so far as his residence and citizenship at the time of his election is concerned. But, as the records show, Harrison was born in Butler county, Ohio.

Indiana isn't the only state that Ohio supplies senatorial material for. For the State of Washington, for example, Ohio donates the services of Clarence C. Dill, a native of Knox county. For the State of Nebraska, it contributes that irascible insurgent, George W. Norris, the product of a Sandusky county farm. And for the State of Missouri, it generously gives that brilliant master of invectives—James A. Reed, who opened his eyes first in Richland county. Dill and Reed are Democrats while Norris is nominally a Republican.

Mule "Swap" Brought
Fortune to Lucky Man

Eleven years ago Joseph Beach of Caldwell, N. J., drove his balky mule Maud, down the streets of the village and met John Gosman. They stopped to talk. Then Gosman noticed the fidgeting Maud.

"How'll you swap, Joe?" asked Gosman.

"Can't say, John," replied Beach. "What you got?"

"Got a piece of land down Florida way: Palm Beach or West Palm Beach, some such a place," Gosman answered.

"Worth $75, you reckon?" Beach asked.

"Guess so, let's swap," Gosman replied.

And they signed the papers.

Beach is departing for West Palm Beach soon to look at the property, for which he has been offered a small fortune.

Heat with Distinction

At last it is proved that a home heater can be good looking—ornamental, if you will—as well as a practical heat-producing utility.

The Mueller Furnacette marks the greatest advance in home heating equipment since the invention of the heating stove. It is the joint creation of master furniture designers and skilled heating engineers. There is distinction in every line of its well-balanced, walnut-grained, vitreous enamel cabinet.

And as for heat—never was there an above-floor heater of any kind that could compare with the Furnacette in heating efficiency! It heats the whole house by continuously re-circulating warm, moist air thru all the rooms. It provides more comfortable, more uniform heat than two or three stoves combined, yet uses no more fuel than an ordinary heating stove.

Sold on convenient monthly payments.

Cruel to Slit Tongue
There is no truth to the notion that a crow can be made to talk if its tongue is slit. It is a cruel practice which has no justification whatever. Crows sometimes, though rarely, learn to talk almost as well as parrots, but it is not made possible by slitting their tongues.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Seven-Ton Meteorite Found in Greenland

Aberdeen, Scotland.—The third largest meteorite in the world just arrived here from Greenland aboard the Danish schooner Sokongen. Nobody here has yet seen the stone, but Captain Pedersen of the Sokongen says it weighs seven tons.

Eskimos are said to have stated that the meteorite fell in 1918 and that they had been dragging it toward the coast on dog sledges since 1923. Much difficulty was encountered in taking the meteorite on board the Sokongen. Captain Pedersen said he had much trouble in steering his vessel to Aberdeen, because the stone deflected the compass.

The Sokongen in 1924 rescued the Danish explorer, Peter Freuchen, who had been lost in Eddis Land for three years.

Of the two larger meteorites in existence, one is in the United States and the other in Great Britain.

Army Officers Work for Roll-Collar Coat

Washington.—Adoption by the army of coats with roll collars for all branches of the service, as recently authorized for air officers, is regarded as considerably nearer by many officers attached to the War department.

It was disclosed that a definite step in this direction has been made by Maj. Gen. Creed C. Hammond, chief of the military bureau, who has addressed circular letters to the adjutant general of all states requesting the views of National Guard officers on the subject. General Hammond entertains no doubt that the majority preference will be for the roll collar.

The proponents of the change assert that the present high and tight-fitting collar is a source of discomfort that far outweighs the "military appearance" ascribed to it as one of its virtues by those who advocate its retention.

He that raises false hopes to serve a purpose only makes a way for disappointment and discontent.

To obtain what is unjust from the just is wrong, but to seek what is just from the unjust is folly.

Important Point

As the man driving a weather-beaten mule attached to a rickety buggy came near, the automobilist stopped and hailed him. Good afternoons were exchanged and then the automobilist inquired, "How far is it to the next town?" The other reflected at length and finally asked, "Well, just what is your idea of a town?"

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. Will you let me help you select the memorial for your lot. Call at show room. NO AGENTS.

Boston Uses Theater
as School for Culture

Boston.—The opening of the Repertory theater of Boston with Sheridan's
"The Rivals," gives official recognition to a theater as an educational institution, and thus is exempted from taxation.

Patterned somewhat along the lines of many civic theaters of Europe, the workers on this stage will strive not only for the perfection of their art, but also to give earnest students of the drama a chance to absorb the real atmosphere of the theater.

Its educational efforts will be to present plays of artistic merit to the public, to interest high school students in the theater, and to train and teach embryo actors and actresses.

Professional actors and actresses will play the characters while students look on at rehearsals and receive their instruction from these same professionals.

The theater is the outcome of years of effort, and for Henry Jewett, its director, and Mrs. Jewett, who has been the guiding hand in many phases of the work, it is a vision realized.

Finances of the theater will be handled by a board of trustees and the entire project will be non-profit making.

Mr. Jewett hopes eventually to original plays and send out touring companies to show other cities what the Repertory theater is doing in the hope that similar projects may be launched elsewhere.

The theater itself cost $150,000 and embraces all that is modern. It will accommodate 499 people.

Can-Opener's Activity

The plow is regarded by those who have made a special study of this subject as the most important tool of civilization, but the can-opener seems to be gaining.—Ohio State Journal.

Which values are first in your mind? Spiritual or material?

"Go to now, ye that say, 'Today or tomorrow we will into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy and sell and get gain; whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow. For what is your life? It is even a vapor that appeareth for a little time and then vanished away. For that ye ought to say, 'if the Lord will, we shall live, and do this or that.'"
James 4:13-15.

Marion Davies in her latest photoplay, "Yolanda" will be the next attraction at the Met theater on Monday for two days.

"Yolanda" is a picturization of Charles Major's historical romance of the name. It is woven around the romance of Princess Mary of Burgundy, who, in the masquerade of the burglar girl, Yolanda, wins the love of Europe's most dashing prince. The story is set in the fifteenth century, in the period of Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy.

Holbrook Blynn appears as the evil King Louis XI; Lyn Harding has the role of Charles the Bold, duke of Burgundy; Ralph Graves is the romantic lover, Prince Maximilian; Johnny Dooley appears as the half witted Dauphin, son of Louis; Leon Errol, the star of "Sally," plays the part of a comedy innkeeper and Maclyn Arbuckle is seen as the bishop.

Others who also appear in the film are: Ian MacLaren, Mary Kennedy,
Theresa Maxwell Conover, Paul Mc-Allister, Arthur Donaldson, Roy Applegate and Gustav von Seyffertitz.

"Yolanda" is said to be the most stupendous motion picture which Miss Davies has yet essayed. In magnificence, romance of story, swift dramatic action and historical accuracy, it is said to excel Miss Davies' production, "When Knighthood Was In Flower."

Robert G. Vignola directed "Yolanda" from the scenario by Luther Reed. Joseph Urban designed the settings.

PIG CLUB BOYS' ACCOUNT OF TRIP TO PITTSBURGH

Winners Were Royally Entertained and Shown Every Courtesy By Busy Business Men of the "Smoky City"—Impressions of the Journey and of the Sights In the Big Town—Digest of Writings Printed In Live Stock Journal.

Even Phillips, Francis McKenzie, Harold Davis, of Pickaway township; Paul Graffis, of Washington township; John Fullen and Harry Carpenter, of Muhlenberg township; Donald Carter and Dennis Lamb, of Deer Creek township, members of the Pig clubs won trips to Pittsburgh and the following digest of what they saw was printed in the Livestock Journal:

Saturday morning, November 7, we went to Circleville, and at the Pickaway County stock yards saw several truck loads of hogs and calves brought in from the farm. The hogs were unloaded, weighed and graded by Mr. Briggs and Mr. Swearingen and put in the pens. The calves were weighed and each one marked with a different mark on the back. They were then loaded on the train. One double-deck of fine sorted hogs was shipped to Zanesville and another load of mixed hogs and calves were shipped to Pittsburgh.

Mr. Bragg gave us final instructions for our trip and we were told to be on hand at 9:30 Sunday morning at the traction depot in Circleville.

We were up bright and early Sunday morning for fear we would miss the train. I met the other boys at the Farm Bureau office. We had our picture taken by Mr. Martin. Mr. Bragg, Mr. Briggs, Mr. Swearingen and Mr. Rector went with us.

We left Circleville at 10:10 o'clock for Columbus. Mr. Russel East, of the Pennsylvania railroad was waiting for us in Columbus. We just had time to make the train that left for Pittsburgh at 1:12.

We went thru a nice farming country in central Ohio, but as we came to the eastern part it was rough and hilly. In Ohio our train only stopped at Newark, Frazzysburg, Trinway, Coshocton, New Comerstown, Dennison and 'Steubenville. We crossed the river at Steubenville where the Pennsylvania railroad is putting in a new bridge that will take two years to finish and will cost over $3,000,000. After crossing the Ohio river we passed thru the northern neck of West Virginia. It is only ten miles across West Virginia at this point into Pennsylvania. It was dark by this time and we did not see much of Pennsylvania.

We arrived at Pittsburgh at 6:40 p. m., where we were met by Mr. L. C. Breidenbach, manager of the Producers Co-operative Commission association. Mr. Breidenbach was the first person to say "Hello, boys!" in Pittsburgh and was the last person to say "Good-bye." He was with us all of the time we were there and could not do enough for us. By the time we left he was "Uncle Louie" to all of us. He took us to the Stock Yards hotel, where we had supper, and soon were ready for bed.

Early Monday morning, the first man on the job "Uncle Louie," ready to show us thru the stock yards. The stock yards are on Herrs Island in the Allegheny river, an island of 36 acres, on which is located the Pittsburgh Provision & Packing company. The yards are covered and have elevated walks so that you can walk right over the stock pens. We saw where all the stock is unloaded, and were told just how every car is handled from the time it gets in until it is sold. There are eleven firms selling stocks in the yards.

Each firm has its own part of the yard to work in. We went to the place where our own Producers Co-operative company sells our hogs, and there in a pen were the same hogs we saw loaded in Circleville on Saturday. Mr. Claiborne, the hog salesman, let us help sort these hogs, and we helped weigh nine of them which he had sold to the Pittsburgh Provision & Packing company.

They are not allowed to sell anything in the yards until nine o'clock, when a bell rings, but we had a special permit to sell and weigh up these nine hogs so that we could see them killed and dressed.

While these hogs were being taken over to the packing company, we went over to see the Pickaway county calves sold. Mr. Stevens, the sheep and calf salesman, showed us how he grades and sells calves and sheep.

Mr. Briggs had a fine load of cattle on the market, which he had shipped for Mr. James Tootle, of Wayne township. We went over and watched Mr. Harry Forman, the cattle salesman, sell the Pickaway county cattle for the top of the market.

We then hurried over to the packing company where several hundred men were hustling around getting ready for the day's work. Here again we met out Pickaway county hogs in a small pen. By special arrangements our hogs were kept separate and killed first. When the whistle blew, all was ready, every man in his place, and the hogs started on their last trip.

The man hooked a chain around their hind leg and hooked them on a big revolving wheel from where they went on to an overhead track and never stopped until they were in the cooling room. Every man had a special job and did nothing else. One man stuck them, another scalded them a machine took off the hair. They were washed and well cleaned singed, head almost cut off, cut open, insides removed and sorted, split open, well cleaned and washed and now again weighed with only leaf lard in and head on. This final weight gives the yield or dressed weight. The heads are now taken off, leaf lard removed, and the carcass went to the cooling room, where it is cut up and sold either as fresh or cured meat.

One of our hogs weighed 250 pounds in the stock yards and after being killed and dressed weighed 186 pounds. Our other eight weighed 1810 in the yards and 1400 pounds dressed weight.

We also saw them kill and dress cattle. This is done about the same way.

After a fine dinner given us by the packing company, we were shown all thru their place in the afternoon. We saw them cutting up meat, making sausage and weinies, curing and smoking meat and selling fresh meat. Hundreds of cattle, calves, sheep and hogs were hanging in the cooling rooms.

We went thru the Livestock Exchange building and were introduced to many of the men there. Mr. Sterling Price, a government supervisor, gave us a nice talk about his work. We met the general manager of the packing company, and Evan Phillips thanked him on our behalf for the fine treatment and the good dinner. "Uncle Louie" now loaded us in an automobile and headed for the Ford assembly plant. We spent the rest of the afternoon going all thru this place. We saw them assemble Fords from start to finish. Here we saw a moving track of Fords with every man doing his special work.

From here we went to the office of the National Stockman and Farmer, where we met Mr. E. S. Bayard, the editor. He was a Pickaway county boy and knew many people back home. We were sorry to learn here that Mr. Thomas D. Harman, president of the company, and also a former Pickaway county boy, had just died that evening.

Tuesday morning we spent some time in the office of the Producers, and Mr. Frank Tucker, bookkeeper, explained to us how returns are made out and sent back to the farmer for his stock. Mr. G. G. Sharpless, traffic manager of the stockyards, also gave us a fine talk about the stock yards and explained everything to us. Mr. Sharpless spent the entire day with us. He and "Uncle Louie" took us in their automobiles to the Westinghouse Electric company in East Pittsburgh, where we were shown thru the biggest electrical company in the world. It covers 50 acres.

The Education department of this company entertained us at a dinner in the East Pittsburgh Rotary club room. From here to the Heinz pickle factory for a short inspection and at 3 p. m., Mr. Russell East conducted us thru the entire Pennsylvania railroad system of Pittsburgh. First we met the vice president, Mr. E. T. Whiter, who received us and had his picture taken with us. Then to the offices of the other department heads.

The treasurer of the Pennsylvania railroad received us and personally told us all about how he handled the money of this great railroad. His receipts are over a million dollars each day. He took us thru the great vaults and allowed us to handle and examine millions of dollars in bonds and securities.

We were shown how trains are made up and operated, and were taken thru the big baggage and parcel post room, which was wonderful, and then down in the yards to the signal tower and were shown how all trains are operated in these big yards. We were even allowed to throw the switches and be real railroad men for a while.

Very few people get to visit the places and see the things we were allowed to see. We hurried back to the hotel, where Mr. Sharpless tendered us a banquet, special menus, place cards and real eating, after which he entertained us at a theater party. At 12:40 a. m., we started for home in a Pullman sleeper. We arrived home tired but happy, in time for school Wednesday.

Everybody treated us fine and our thanks are due to everyone who contributed in any way to the success of our trip. Mr. and Mrs. Hallman, of the Stock Yards hotel, made us feel at home and turned their hotel over to our management while with them.

We will never forget "Uncle Louie" Mr. East and Mr. and Mrs. Hallman.—Pittsburgh Live Stock Journal.

Helpful Habit

A Chicago newspaper writer went out to investigate Hollywood. She was greatly surprised when she discovered how many of the picture people were happily married, had children in the public schools, and were active in building up the community.

"I always thought," she confided, "that marriage was supposed to interfere with art, but this does not seem to be the case at all."

"It doesn't interfere at all," replied a Los Angeles writer, "if you marry often enough."—Los Angeles Times.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONALSunday School Lesson

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 29PAUL BEFORE AGRIPPA

LESSON TEXT—Ac's 25:1-26:32.
GOLDEN TEXT—"I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision."—Acts 26:19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Paul Tells Why He Obeyed Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Paul Tells a King About Jesus.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Obedience to the Heavenly Vision.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul's Defense of His Mission.

More than two years had elapsed since Paul had been tried before Felix, during which time Jewish hatred for him had not abated. As soon as Festus, the new governor, went to Jerusalem he was besieged with accusations against Paul. His accusers desired that he be brought to Jerusalem for trial, intending to lie in wait and kill him on the way. Festus refused their request, but agreed to give them an opportunity to accuse Paul if they would go down to Caesarea. They were unable to prove anything against him. Festus, willing to please the Jews, proposed to send him to Jerusalem for trial. Paul rebuked Festus for this, declaring that he knew very well that he was innocent. Seeing that it was impossible to get justice before Festus, Paul made use of his right as a Roman citizen and appealed to Caesar. This surprised Festus. His failure to release an innocent man placed him in an awkward position for he could give no explanation as to why an innocent man should go to Rome for trial.

I. Paul Before the King (25:13-27).

The occasion of his appearing before Agrippa was the visit of Agrippa and Bernice to Festus. Upon their arrival they expressed a desire to hear Paul, whereupon Festus told them of his perplexity. So it was arranged that Paul be brought before them for examination. The gospel should be preached to all regardless of wealth or station in life.

II. Paul's Defense Before Agrippa (26:1-27).

1. The Introduction (vv. 1-3).
He expressed his delight that he now could speak and tell his case to one who was able to follow his line of argument, for Agrippa was an expert in questions concerning the Jews; but most of all he was now happy in witnessing to him of the Savior, and perhaps leading him into the light of God.

2. His Manner of Life (vv. 4-12).
This he showed had been in strictest accord with the most rigid sect of Jews. He possessed the same hope, i. e., that of a coming Deliverer, and reminded them of the fact that formerly he was most bitterly opposed to Christ as his zeal would prove.

3. His Supernatural Conversion (vv. 13-15).

Jesus Christ appeared to him on the way to Damascus and revealed Himself to him.

4. Jesus Christ Commissioned Him for His Work (vv. 16-18).

He was sent unto the Gentiles:

(1) To open their eyes so awfully blinded.

(2) To perform the blessed work of turning them from darkness to light.

(3) To turn them from the power of Satan unto God.

(4) That they might receive forgiveness of sins.

(5) And that they might obtain an inheritance among the saints.

5. His Consecration (vv. 19-23).

As soon as he received his commission, he obeyed. Every man should instantly obey the call of God and devote his life to carrying forward the work entrusted to him. The vigorous prosecution of his work brought him into conflict with the Jews, for which they sought to kill him.

6. The Interruption by Festus (v. 24).

Seeing how thoroughly in earnest Paul was, Festus attempted to account for it by calling him a crank, attributing it to the ravings of an unbalanced mind.

7. Paul's Appeal to Agrippa (vv. 25-27).

Still maintaining his courage, he appealed to Agrippa's knowledge of the work of Jesus and of the prophets for they have an intimate connection.

III. Agrippa Almost Persuaded (vv. 28-32).

Whether Agrippa's answer was a contemptuous sneer or not, it is quite evident that his soul was wrought upon. He saw the claim of Christ upon him but was unwilling to yield. Sad indeed, that a man should be so near to eternal life, and yet lost! Paul took Agrippa seriously. His heart longed that Agrippa, and all concerned, might accept Christ and be saved.

Kitchen Economy From the Man's An

MEN long ago learned that no business could be successfully run without the application of systematic business methods. They feel that women, who have progressed in so many directions, should be more ready to apply to their own special activities the methods which men have found good.

These methods have made for success in running everything masculine from a carpenter-shop to a railroad. Why not apply them to running a home? Men claim that women do not use their brains in conducting their housework; that they get into a rut and stay there, doing things as their grandmothers did, instead of taking advantage of the various improvements and aids which modern science and invention have placed at their disposal.

The humblest artisan would not use inferior tools in his shop. And no wide-awake business man would equip his office with makeshifts and "get along with them," just because his father and grandfather before him had found them adequate to their needs. Yet many a housewife does these very things in her home, using left-overs and hand-me-downs in the way of utensils and employing methods of a similar outworn type.

Our grandmothers were compelled to do their own preserving, and spent long hours of hard work and drudgery in the doing of it. Much of the food they put up spoiled, because they lacked both scientific knowledge and proper implements. But, today, great canneries all over the country have taken over this labor, and are doing it according to the latest improved methods and scientific discoveries. Vast, complicated systems of machinery perform miracles utterly beyond the power of the housewife in her kitchen. Sanitary measures are enforced as not even the most scrupulous home-canner can regulate them. Through mechanical processes sterilization is achieved—as no amateur can possibly achieve it. And, through mechanical means of preventing oxidation, more vitamins are retained than is possible in home-cooking.

Why, then, should not the housewife utilize this splendid industry which saves her time, labor and responsibility, and makes it possible for her to give her family nourishing, palatable meals, while permitting her entrance to a wider field of activities?

A man, temporarily abandoned by his women-folk during an emergency or vacation period, and left to depend upon his own resources in the matter of cooking, will instinctively make use of the handiest means available for preparing his meals. Invention having provided him with a typewriter, it would never occur to him to write out all of his business by hand. "I can see no reason," one man declares, "for perking over a hot stove, during long hours of a summer day, in the preparation of foods which have been much better prepared for me in a cannery, and need only to be taken from the can, reheated and placed on the table, all ready to eat."

He finds it all so easy—and speedy—that he cannot understand why his wife is always complaining of being overworked. The woman who has been clinging to old-fashioned methods will do well to take her husband's advice on the subject of modernizing them. Women, today, are using the masculine knicker and hair-cut, copying the masculine swagger and slang and freedom from convention. Why will they not also copy masculine business methods and apply them in their own special domain—the home?

Men have learned, too, that the use of up-to-date methods usually makes for economy. They have acquired the ability to discriminate between real and false economy, whereas the majority of women are sadly lacking in such discrimination. Going on the principle that they can save money by doing work themselves, they will buy large quantities of so-called fresh fruits or vegetables—many of which will have become spoiled by the time the housewife can get around to preparing them. She will spend weary hours over a hot stove, until, by the time the job of preserving is over, she is too physically tired to be a good companion to her husband or children, or to fulfill any of the outside duties which modern life entails upon her. The masculine mind justly regards this as a false and futile economy, from every point of view, when he considers that she could have purchased from her grocer, at moderate prices, the purest and best food there is, all in tins and ready to serve.

OHIO WOMAN IS HELD IN BOMB PLOT

Chicago, Nov. 26.—Mrs. Lena Rice, daughter of H. C. Schrock, of Richwood, O., and mother of three children who, she admits, she left to the care of her father, after leaving her husband, spent Thanksgiving in the office of State's Attorney Crowe, under questioning for her part in the placing of a bomb in front of a Chicago hardware store this morning.

The woman probably will be charged with complicity with a bomb ring, said to be operating here and which is blamed for a dozen recent bombings of Chicago business places. The bombings were "pulled off" for $150 or $200 each. State's Attorney Crowe said his informers had told him.

Mrs. Rice was a "tool" in the hands of the syndicate, in Mr. Crowe's opinion. Her companions when she was arrested are Fred Wanquist and Joseph Avanzio. Wanquist first met Mrs. Rice at Battle Creek, Mich., where she has relatives, it was learned, and he is believed to be partly responsible for the disruption of her home. She is divorced from, or has deserted her husband, according to Chicago police records.

Her part in the bombings, police said, was to deliver the bombs, which usually were about a foot in length and loaded with four sticks of dynamite. These, she would carry beneath a cape and as she passed the "marked place" would drop the bomb and be on her way.

Her two companions were wounded by bullets from policemen's revolvers as they tried to escape arrest today.

Sun Rays Bring Life

to Long Dormant Child

London.—Specialists at the London hospital are using solar rays to work the "rejuvenation" of a boy baby, who upon birth two years ago had every appearance of advanced age and who, until a few weeks ago, had never aroused from a deep slumber.

"Baby Rip Van Winkle," as he was dubbed by the medical men, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cohen of Highgate. According to his mother he never cried, but lay motionless for a year, life being sustained by artificial feeding.

"His body was stone cold, even in summer," she said. "He was just like an old, old man."

Doctors at first considered the case hopeless, but at a conference of 24 specialists several weeks ago it was determined to make a final effort to save the baby's life by the use of solar rays. His milk diet also was changed to one of fruit juices.

The other day, to the astonishment of the hospital attendants, the baby began to cry and then to fuss and squirm like an ordinary infant. Now he is growing teeth. The specialists believe that within two years he will be a normal child.

Blind Pair Marry

After Long Courtship

New York.—The blind led the blind to the altar in Adams Memorial Presbyterian church, where Joseph L. Bennett and Miss Eva Brasseur, both blind for more than twenty years, were married by Rev. Harold S. Rambo.

As he stood at the altar, the hand of his bride in his, Bennett, who is fifty-three, remembered her as a girl of twenty, his sweetheart then. She is now forty-nine.

"That is the way I shall always think of her," he said.

Mrs. Bennett became blind 22 years ago.

Bennett's hands fumbled as the bride shyly held her finger to receive the ring which neither will ever see. But, they smiled.

The bridegroom lost his sight through the explosion of a stick of dynamite in a mine.

SISTER OF MAN HIRING SPECIAL TRAIN IS DEAD

Mrs. Electra Wharton of New York Will Be Taken Back To Texas For Burial.

New York, Nov. 27.—Mrs. Electra Waggoner Wharton, of Fort Worth, Texas, whose illness caused her brother, Guy Waggoner, to make a trip by special train, died today in a hospital from a complication of diseases.

Mr. Waggoner, a wealthy oil man in Fort Worth, had been constantly at the bedside since his arrival here on Nov. 16. Missing connections at St. Louis, he hired a special train to New York for $5,607 and it broke records.

Mrs. Wharton was 45 years old and had been married three times. Her first husband was Thomas Wharton, her second Weldon Bailey and her third James A. Gilmore. The body will be sent to Fort Worth.

Boy Finds It Difficult to Live on $12,000 a Year

Honolulu.—Mrs. Elizabeth Knight of Los Angeles, Cal., recently appeared with her twelve-year-old grandson, Richard Parker Smart, before Judge John R. Desha of the Court of Domestic Relations, and complained that it has been very difficult for young Richard to live within his annual allowance of $12,000.

The boy, owner of the large Parker ranch on the island of Hawaii, is reputed to be a millionaire. The grandmother, as his guardian, petitioned the court to increase the allowance to $16,500, which was granted.

Mrs. Knight told the court that the servants employed in her home for the benefit of young Richard cost approximately $400 a month. In addition to the increased annual allowance the court authorized an expenditure of $2,500 to cover the cost of the boy's vacation in Hawaii and $1,800 for distribution by the youngster among the employees of his cattle ranch when he visits his property to be the guest of the staff and cowboys.

Would Use Blimp in

Flight to North Pole

Washington.—Lighter-than-air machines, like the dirigibles Shenandoah and Los Angeles, are in the opinion of Commander Donald B. MacMillan, the type of craft best suited to overcome the ice hazards that the Far North presents to the explorer.

Continually drifting ice floes, he has radioed the National Geographic society, make uncertain the landing of heavier-than-air machines, as one day a fjord may be open only to be ice-bound the next.

Under such conditions, he said, a cache established by an airplane, "is not a help, but a menace, for if depended upon and a plane arrives out of fuel, destruction is certain."

"The lighter-than-air machines can do the work," he added, "and should do it at the earliest opportunity."

ANTIDOTE FOR ACID BURNS

Acid from a battery accidentally splashed on the hands can be quickly removed by simply washing with ordinary soap and cold water. One of the main ingredients of soap is a substance which, when put in contact with acid, quickly neutralizes the latter's sharp characteristics, so soap is the best antidote for acid burns.

"Magic Casements" Beautify the Home

BY AGNES PORTER

"Charm'd magic casements, opening to the foam

Of perilous seas, in fairy lands forlorn."

BY MANY, those two lines of Keat's are considered the most beautiful in all English verse. However that may be, there is no doubt about the appropriateness of the use of the adjective "magic"; for casements—all windows—are capable of performing a sort of sorcery in adding to the beauty of the home and the pleasure of those who dwell within it.

Just as the eyes of a human being, if they are clear and wide open, give you a pleasant impression of the person, so the windows of a house, if they are well glazed, well designed, well placed, and well curtained, give you a pleasant impression of the house. For this reason the woman who is proud of her home will devote as much thought to the windows and their curtaining as to any of the other details which naturally fall within her province.

Plate Glass Fills Bill

Every window of the ordinary type has four main functions. It must admit the light of the sun. It must be capable of admitting its proportional amount of ventilation. It must offer a clear and unobstructed view. It must harmonize with the general architectural design.

The glass, therefore, must be faultless in its texture, and it must have that brilliant lustre which does so much to add to the appearance of the home a subtle air of cheerfulness and distinction. There is no difficulty about obtaining such a glass. Plate glass fills the bill perfectly, and it can be supplied by any builder or competent glazier.

The Curtains

The choice of the glass is of the utmost importance, but nearly every window needs the graceful folds of the curtain to give the final touch of aesthetic satisfaction. At the same time, the curtains act as the harmonizing medium between the furniture and the walls of room or hall. They are not so prominent as the furniture, nor so reticent as the walls; and so they naturally take the middle course, striking the note of grace and charm, after the other essentials have been provided.

The type of curtain to be used chiefly depends upon the architectural features of the window. As a general rule, curtains may be hung straight or looped back with cords; they may be hung only to the sill or all the way to the floor.

If the window casing is built straight from the top to the floor curtains should usually be hung in the same manner. The height of the ceiling is also an important consideration, for the longer the straight side curtains are the higher the room will look. The shorter they are, the lower the ceiling of the room will seem to descend. The use of a valance, or looping the curtains with cords, will always serve to diminish the apparent height of the ceiling.

Choosing the Material

In choosing the curtain material one will naturally be guided by the general decorative scheme of the room. A rich gamask curtain would be as unsuitable for a Mission card room as a rag carpet in a gilded ball room. Expense, too, will play a part in the selection of the material, but expense need never be a bar to lovely and ingenious effects.

The richest silks and velvets money will buy can add no more to the appealing charm of a room than is attainable with cretonnes, chintzes, dotted swiss, or even with a few lengths of unbleached muslin, a dye pot, and a venturesome spirit. In the dyeing of the fabric practice makes perfect as it does in most worthwhile things; so it is better to experiment at first with a few samples thrown into the dye pot.

The dyed fabric can be stitched with quaint designs in wool, or it will form an excellent background for brilliant Japanese flowers of cotton crepe. But until you have tried you will never know the joy of blending colors to attain something really unusual—rich peacock shades, glowing amber, and softest lilac. Nor until you try your hand will you have the added joy of evolving striking and original effects with your own well thought out designs.

Mischief in Odors

An ailment similar to hay fever can be caused in many people by the odor of certain animals, notably cats, dogs and horses.

Injustice

He often acts unjustly who does not do a certain thing; not only he who does a certain thing.—Marcus Antoninus.

Select Their Own Coffins

In many parts of China and Japan "coffin shops" are to be seen on the principal streets. These people like to make early preparations for their demise by purchasing their coffins. The shops show an attractive line of samples from which to make selection.

Early Tea Importation

The first shipment of tea from India to reach England was in 1836.

Must Be Tested

The only way in which to fit a people for self-government is to intrust them with self-government.—Macaulay.

Swallowed Up in Chasm

Marcus Curtius, a noble youth, according to an old Roman legend, rode his horse into a great chasm opened up in 362 B. C., in the forum of Rome by an earthquake and was swallowed up.

Not Too Hard-Headed to Dye His Whiskers

A lecturer on art recently spoke before a group of men in an industrial city, according to Fred C. Kelly, urging upon them the duty of trying to put more beauty into their surroundings. At the close of the talk, a leading citizen came up to have a few words with the lecturer.

"I enjoyed your talk," he said.
"though I didn't agree with you. The fact is that we have no time here for beauty. The prosperity of this town is due to hard-headed, practical men. We are doing things and can't bother to think about being beautiful."

"Yet," retorted the lecturer, smiling, "you yourself are seeking beauty
according to your lights. You may not have found it, but I know you are aiming at what you think makes for
greater attractiveness."

"No, you're wrong," insisted the hard-headed, practical man. "I'm not
interested in beauty."

"Then," said the lecturer, "if you don't mind my being so personal, will
you please tell me why you have dyed
your whiskers?"

Appeal to States in War on Steel Trap

Washington.—Officials of the newly organized antisteel trap league are preparing a pamphlet written by Edward Breck, writer, lecturer and former navy officer, who is president of the organization, appealing for general support of the league's program, which covers both the United States and Canada. This program the organization's officials summarize as follows:

"We propose to bring about the passage of a law by all the state and provincial legislatures making illegal all use of the torturing steel trap and other non-killing devices for taking fur, except by the authorities in the case of vermin."

Every woman who ever wore fur
will be asked to contribute $1.
